A Charming Woman

is one who is lovely in face, form, mind and temper. But its hard for a woman to be charming without health. A weak, sickly woman will be nervous and irritable. Constipation and kidney poisons show in pimples, blotches, skin eruptions and a wretched complexion. But Electric Bitters always prove a godsend to women who want health, besuty and friends. They regulate Stomach, Liver and Kidneys, purify the blood; give strong nerves, bright eyes, pure breath, smooth, velvety skin, lovely complexion and perfect health. Try them. 50c at James 11. TShe should never have reinried to the accursed country," Cavanagh barshly replied, starting back toward the cablu.

The constable, smoking his pipe beside the fireplace, dld not present an anxlous face. On the contrary, he seemed plumply content as he replied to the ranger's greeting. He represented very well the type of officer which these disorderly communities produce. Brave and threless when working along the line of his prejudices, he could be most laxly inefficient when his duties cut across his own or his neighbor's interests. Being a cuttleman by training, he was glad of the red herring which the Texas officer had trailed across the line of his pur-

This attitude still further inflamed Cavanagh's indignant hate of the comtry. The theory which the deputy developed was transparent folly. "It was just a case of plain robbery," he argued. "One of them dagoes had money, and Nelll Ballard and that man Edwords just naturally follered him and killed the whole buuch and secoted. That's my guess,"

An hour inter the sound of a horse's hoofs on the bridge gave warning of a visitor, and as Cavanagh went to the door Gregg rade up, seeking partieulars as to the death of the herder and the whereabouts of the sheep.

The ranger was not in a mood to in vite the sheepman in, and, fesides, he perceived the danger to which Wetherford was exposed; therefore his answers were short. Gregg, on his part, did not appear, anxious to enter.

"What cappened to that old hobo 1

sent up? he asked. Cavmille h briefly retold his story, and at the end of it Gregg grunted. "You say you burned the tent and all the bedding?"

"Every thread of it. It wasn't safe to leave It."

"What alled the man?" "I don't know, but it looked and smelled like smallpox."

Gregg recidled a step or two, but the depoty stood staring, the implication of all this staking deep. "Were you wearing the same clothes you've got

"Keep off!" shouted the sheriff. Ross smiled, then became very serious "I took every precaution, Mr. Deputy. I destroyed everything that could possfldy carry the disease, 1 terrned every utensil, including the horse and his dog." The officer caught up his hat and "Don't lose your nerve. Melbe this cont and started for the door. "It's me for the open air," said he,

As the men withdrew itoss followed them and, standing in his door, dolivered his final volley, "if this state does not punish those flends every decent man should emigrate out of it, turning the land over to the wulves, the wildcats and other beasts of prey."

Gregg as he retreated called back; "That's all right, Mr Hanger, but you'd bytter keep to the hills for a few weeks. The settlers down below wou't enjoy having a man with smallpox chassaying around town. They might rope and the you."

Wetherford came out of his hiding place with a grave face. "They're right about our staying

"They'll quarantine us sure." Wetherford now that the danger of arrest was over was disposed to be grimly humorous, "There's no great loss without some small gain. I don't think we'll be trouided by any more visitors, not even by sheriffs or does tors. I reckon you and I are in for a couple of months of the quiet ilfe-the klud we read about." Cavanagh now that he was definitely out of the forest service perceived lonely life and must ever be so. It was all very well for a young unmarried man who loved the woods and could walt for advancement, but it was a sad place for one who desired a wife. The ranger's place was on the trall and in the fills, and to bring a woman into these high silences, into these lone reaches of forest and fell, would be cruel. To bring children into them would be criminal. All the next day, while Wetherford potered about the cutdo or the yard, Unvanigh toiled at his papers, resolved to leave everything in the perfect order which he loved. Whenever he looked round upon his belongings, each and all so redolent of the wliderness, he found them very dear. Ills chairs, which he had rived out of slabs; his guns, his robes, his saddles and their acconterment. -- all menut much to

"Some of them must go with me," he sald, "and when i am settled down in the old home I'll have one room to myself which shall be so comidetely of the mountain America that when I um within it'l can faucy myself back in the camp."

He thought of South Africa as a posalbility and put it aside, knowing well that no other place could have the same indefinable charm that the Bocky mountains possessed for the reason that he bad come to them at his most impressionable age. Then, 100, the United Sintes, for all its faults, seemof merely an extension of the English form of go ernment.

Wetherford was also moving in deep thought and at last put his perplexity I'm beginning to feel queer. I reckon the chances for my having smallpox are purty fuir. Maybe 1'd better drop down to Sulphur and report to the suthorities. I've got a day or two before the blossoms will begin to show

D. D. has become so famous as a cure and instant relief in Eczema and all other serious skin diseases, that its value is sometimes overlooked in clearing up rash, pimples, blackheads, and all other minor forms of skin impurities.

The fact is, that while D. D. is so penetrating that it strikes to the very root of Eczema or any other seri-ous trouble, the soothing Oil of Wintergreen, Thymol and other ingredients are so carefully compounded there is no wash for the skin made that can compare with this great household remedy for every kind of skin trouble. D. D. D. is pleasant to use, perfectly harmless to the most delicate skin, and absolutely reliable. Fireman Sam Purcell climbed Lucus. into the steeple to use a fire extinguisher on the blaze. He succeeded in putting out the fire, and later began an examination of the damage done. He found a sack of coins, the cutlery, two gold watches and a necklace hidden in one corner of the interior. Later he reported the find to the Rev. Father Mathias Lieck, pastor of the church.

Father Lieck said that he could not account for the presence there of the treasure, and that an examination will be made. It is supposed that somebody stole valuables and hid them there.
